Nu Chapter Honored for Excellence in Recruitment

The 2006-2007 school year has been a great year for KA at Auburn University. The chapter's leadership is strong, members are serving in leadership capacities all over campus, and the overall brotherhood of the chapter could not be better. The most notable achievement of the year was the outstanding recruitment that took place in the fall.

Through fall Rush 2006, 41 new brothers were welcomed into Kappa Alpha Order. These results are setting the bar high for future recruitment efforts. This is the largest pledge class KA has seen in 16 years!

Not only is this success something to be proud of

on Auburn's campus, but the KA National Office also recognized this achievement. For 2006-2007, Nu Chapter received the Martin Award for Excellence in Recruitment.

"We are honored to have these 41 new men be a part of the KA legacy. Each one brings unique talents to the fraternity, and I look forward to seeing their leadership grow and make KA at Auburn the best of the best. We hope Rush 2007 brings about the same quality of men and continues to make Nu Chapter the strongest it can be," commented Stephen Nash '05, Rush Co-Chairman.

If you know someone coming to Auburn in the fall that would make an excellent addition to the brotherhood of KA, please contact one of the Rush Co-Chairmen to make your recommendation.

2007 Knights of the Round Table Raise 65% of Campaign Goal

The Knights of the Round Table are an invaluable resource for Kappa Alpha Order at Auburn University. These men selflessly provide the funding to pay for excellent alumni relations programs. To date, over $4,200 of the $6,500 goal has been raised for the 2007 effort.

Knights of the Round Table efforts pay to maintain the chapter website, send newsletters, cover expenses for alumni events, and bring all Nu Chapter alumni together. In 2006 alone, 2,692 individuals viewed www.nuchapter.com, and 5,905 pieces of mail were sent to alumni. The Nu Chapter alumni relations program is unmatched by any other organizations at Auburn.

"Thanks to the Knights of the Round Table, alumni involvement has soared. The undergraduates have a great appreciation for the work and commitment of alumni, enjoy seeing them at Homecoming and other events, and alumni brothers through the Nu Chapter generations have been able to reconnect. We must keep this momentum going and continue to support this outstanding program," commented John Haynes '64, Nu Social Society President.

Working together, the Knights of the Round Table will preserve the storied history and legacy of Nu Chapter.

You can join the Knights of the Round Table for 2007 by making a pledge online by visiting <http://www.nuchapter.com> and clicking on the "Annual Fund Campaign" tab. You can also complete and cut out the form at the bottom of this page.

Brother to Brother

Todd Reaves '89 and his wife, Storey, welcomed their third child, Isobel, in January. Isobel joins older brothers William and Smith.

After spending several years with Ernst & Young, LLP in their Business Advisory practice, Heath Buckner '00 accepted a position in the Mergers and Acquisitions Advisory practice at Arlington Capital, LLC, a boutique Investment Banking firm located in Birmingham, AL.

Handshakes and Applause to The Chapter:

- Nu Chapter was named to the Crimson Gift Century Society, given from KA National Office for blood donation.
- During the fall semester, KA placed 1st place in Spirit points among Auburn's fraternities. These points are based on spirit at pep rallies and games, attending philanthropies, food drives, and Greek Week.
